need and makes recommendations for approval to the Board of Directors.

"I was working in a manufacturing plant as an hourly laborer, but we were barely making it. I knew there was no opportunity for advancement at the plant. We were accepted into the Habitat program, worked our sweat equity hours and moved into our new house. We soon realized that we could afford for me to take a job at the Lenoir City Police Department making less than my factory job, but with much more opportunity for advanced training and promotions. Now I'm a professional law enforcement officer. Thanks to Habitat, we have a decent home."

John, homeowner

Sweat Equity hours are earned through work on the construction site, homeownership classes, helping with Habitat events, working at the Home Store and other qualified activities.

"While we were working our sweat equity hours I learned so many things I never thought I could do. I'd always been such a little mouse. Doing the construction work and finally owning our own home gave me so much confidence that I applied for a supervisory job at work. Now not only do

This is the first sentence a family reads when they receive their invitation letter to partner with Loudon County Habitat for Humanity. When this important letter is opened, a new and life-changing chapter begins. But even getting to this point is a journey in itself. To begin with, the family must hear about the program—usually from a friend at church or work. At first it sounds too good to be true, but with some encouragement and a lot of hope, the journey begins when the family fills out a pre-application.

"I think sometimes we just need to remember that we need help from others. We need to humble ourselves and acknowledge that one person alone cannot do it all so we all need to work together. And that's been what has happened with these houses, people working together for one purpose—to provide a decent house for people in need."

Jaime, homeowner

Applicants must be Loudon County residents who have a need for housing, are low income yet have steady income sufficient to pay the mortgage and are willing to work sweat equity hours. All information on the application is verified with documentation such as tax returns, pay stubs and credit reports, and home visits by staff and volunteers are made to document the current housing conditions. The Family Selection Committee reviews and ranks the applicant files based on

©Habitat for Humanity International 2015

Two Habitat Homes Recently Dedicated

On Sunday, May 17, Loudon County Habitat dedicated its 102nd house. The house, in the Hope Haven neighborhood, was sponsored by the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, and was the 3rd house the church has sponsored. Maria Guzman is the proud owner of this new house.

Also dedicated, on Saturday, June 20, was Habitat’s first total rehab house, located on Loudon Ridge Road in Lenoir City. The house and land were donated by Chase Bank, and the FHLB of Cincinnati Affordable Housing Program through SouthEast Bank provided funds for the demolition and reconstruction of the house. The Miller family is the recipient of this house and will be moving in soon.

The Women Build house will be dedicated Saturday, August 1 at 9:30 a.m. in the Hope Haven neighborhood.

Second Annual

HOUSES & Hope Breakfast

TUESDAY
SEPTMBER 22, 2015
8:30-9:30 AM

Please call Sandi Byrd at (865) 458-0704, option 2, ext. 4, if you would like to attend or would like more information.

No charge to attend.

308 Mialaquo Place
Loudon, TN 37774
Ribbon is Coming!

Mark your calendars for the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection’s Ribfest 4 Homes, an annual BBQ rib cook-off and all around fun event for the entire family. This is Ribfest 4 Homes’ 7th year and it will take place on Saturday August 8, from 1-5 at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 917 Pond Rd in Loudon. Proceeds from this event are used by the church to sponsor and build a Habitat house. The church has built 3 houses since 2009 with these funds.

For large donation pick-ups call (865) 988-7427 opt 1.

Board of Directors
Sheila Borders - President
Tim Meadows - Vice Pres.
Todd Bolinger - Treasurer
Jeannette Dennell - Secretary
Hugh Brachar
Joe Fard
Randi Heiden
Ed Lindler
Micah Nicolaus
Len Phillips
Angela Saluga
Maria Tedesco
Tom Walters
Bart Watson

“Ribfest is coming! Mark your calendars for the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection’s Ribfest 4 Homes, an annual BBQ rib cook-off and all around fun event for the entire family. This is Ribfest 4 Homes’ 7th year and it will take place on Saturday August 8, from 1-5 at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 917 Pond Rd in Loudon. Proceeds from this event are used by the church to sponsor and build a Habitat house. The church has built 3 houses since 2009 with these funds.”

From May 2-10, 2015, an estimated 15,000 women volunteered at least one day at Habitat for Humanity construction sites across the country during National Women Build Week in an effort to eliminate poverty housing. These dates are significant to many volunteers, as families with children make up a staggering number of those in need of adequate housing.

Getting started with our 9th Women Build house was frustrating because of weather delays, but by May the house was under roof. Over a dozen women and a few good men helped kick off National Women Build Week on Saturday, May 2, by installing siding with Michele Haynes on her future home.

Lowe’s helped launch National Women Build Week in 2008 and each year provides volunteers and conducts how-to clinics at stores. This year, Lowe’s contributed nearly $2 million to National Women Build Week, including awarding a $5000 grant to Loudon County Habitat for Humanity.

Lowe’s Heroes, Gail Roberts (retired) and Doug Roberts as well as Patrick McConnell, Blount County Lowe’s store manager were on site lending a hand.

Why do women love Women Build? Molly Greebe of Heartland Habitat put it this way, “They build to learn new skills in the construction trade. They build to give back to their community. They build to focus on something bigger than themselves for a day. They build to honor a loved one who has passed away. They build to meet new people and explore new things. They build because they like the challenge. They build because it’s their only chance to get their hands on some power tools. They build to prove that they can do anything they aspire to do. They build because God called them to help those less fortunate.”

Thank you to all the women (and men) who volunteered their time not only for National Women Build Week, but every week and everywhere. You ARE making a difference!

Partner Families in the Habitat program must complete education classes before they can purchase a house. Below is a list of items generally covered in the classes.

Orientation to the Habitat Program
Families help dictate the meeting time, day and location based on their schedules to enable the greatest possible participation and to eliminate potential barriers.

Basic Financial Management
Analyzing family financial situations to enable the families to get the maximum benefit from take-home pay. The goal is to help families save for closing costs, get control of any debt and pay monthly bills while still building savings accounts.

Making and managing a budget with regular ‘check ups’ to help families overcome any financial pitfalls before they become catastrophic.

Home Maintenance
Learning through hands-on experience how to repair and maintain a home. Learning how to patch a screen, patch a hole in drywall, replace toilet parts, and much more, so maintaining a safe, healthy home is attainable.

Homeowners’ Insurance
Discussing the components of homeowners’ insurance, its purpose and what to do to help control insurance costs. This year, an insurance agent will lead this discussion and answer all pertinent questions.

Neighborhood Etiquette
Role playing scenarios to help families understand the importance of working with neighbors on issues as they arise without third-party interventions. Helping families to understand the community aspect of a neighborhood to build camaraderie and respect.

Partner Families in the Habitat program must complete education classes before they can purchase a house. Below is a list of items generally covered in the classes.

Orientation to the Habitat Program
Families help dictate the meeting time, day and location based on their schedules to enable the greatest possible participation and to eliminate potential barriers.

Basic Financial Management
Analyzing family financial situations to enable the families to get the maximum benefit from take-home pay. The goal is to help families save for closing costs, get control of any debt and pay monthly bills while still building savings accounts.

Making and managing a budget with regular ‘check ups’ to help families overcome any financial pitfalls before they become catastrophic.

Home Maintenance
Learning through hands-on experience how to repair and maintain a home. Learning how to patch a screen, patch a hole in drywall, replace toilet parts, and much more, so maintaining a safe, healthy home is attainable.

Homeowners’ Insurance
Discussing the components of homeowners’ insurance, its purpose and what to do to help control insurance costs. This year, an insurance agent will lead this discussion and answer all pertinent questions.

Neighborhood Etiquette
Role playing scenarios to help families understand the importance of working with neighbors on issues as they arise without third-party interventions. Helping families to understand the community aspect of a neighborhood to build camaraderie and respect.

“Ribfest is coming! Mark your calendars for the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection’s Ribfest 4 Homes, an annual BBQ rib cook-off and all around fun event for the entire family. This is Ribfest 4 Homes’ 7th year and it will take place on Saturday August 8, from 1-5 at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 917 Pond Rd in Loudon. Proceeds from this event are used by the church to sponsor and build a Habitat house. The church has built 3 houses since 2009 with these funds.”

From May 2-10, 2015, an estimated 15,000 women volunteered at least one day at Habitat for Humanity construction sites across the country during National Women Build Week in an effort to eliminate poverty housing. These dates are significant to many volunteers, as families with children make up a staggering number of those in need of adequate housing.

Getting started with our 9th Women Build house was frustrating because of weather delays, but by May the house was under roof. Over a dozen women and a few good men helped kick off National Women Build Week on Saturday, May 2, by installing siding with Michele Haynes on her future home.

Lowe’s helped launch National Women Build Week in 2008 and each year provides volunteers and conducts how-to clinics at stores. This year, Lowe’s contributed nearly $2 million to National Women Build Week, including awarding a $5000 grant to Loudon County Habitat for Humanity.

Lowe’s Heroes, Gail Roberts (retired) and Doug Roberts as well as Patrick McConnell, Blount County Lowe’s store manager were on site lending a hand.

Why do women love Women Build? Molly Greebe of Heartland Habitat put it this way, “They build to learn new skills in the construction trade. They build to give back to their community. They build to focus on something bigger than themselves for a day. They build to honor a loved one who has passed away. They build to meet new people and explore new things. They build because they like the challenge. They build because it’s their only chance to get their hands on some power tools. They build to prove that they can do anything they aspire to do. They build because God called them to help those less fortunate.”

Thank you to all the women (and men) who volunteered their time not only for National Women Build Week, but every week and everywhere. You ARE making a difference!

Partner Families in the Habitat program must complete education classes before they can purchase a house. Below is a list of items generally covered in the classes.

Orientation to the Habitat Program
Families help dictate the meeting time, day and location based on their schedules to enable the greatest possible participation and to eliminate potential barriers.

Basic Financial Management
Analyzing family financial situations to enable the families to get the maximum benefit from take-home pay. The goal is to help families save for closing costs, get control of any debt and pay monthly bills while still building savings accounts.

Making and managing a budget with regular ‘check ups’ to help families overcome any financial pitfalls before they become catastrophic.

Home Maintenance
Learning through hands-on experience how to repair and maintain a home. Learning how to patch a screen, patch a hole in drywall, replace toilet parts, and much more, so maintaining a safe, healthy home is attainable.

Homeowners’ Insurance
Discussing the components of homeowners’ insurance, its purpose and what to do to help control insurance costs. This year, an insurance agent will lead this discussion and answer all pertinent questions.

Neighborhood Etiquette
Role playing scenarios to help families understand the importance of working with neighbors on issues as they arise without third-party interventions. Helping families to understand the community aspect of a neighborhood to build camaraderie and respect.

“Ribfest is coming! Mark your calendars for the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection’s Ribfest 4 Homes, an annual BBQ rib cook-off and all around fun event for the entire family. This is Ribfest 4 Homes’ 7th year and it will take place on Saturday August 8, from 1-5 at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 917 Pond Rd in Loudon. Proceeds from this event are used by the church to sponsor and build a Habitat house. The church has built 3 houses since 2009 with these funds.”

From May 2-10, 2015, an estimated 15,000 women volunteered at least one day at Habitat for Humanity construction sites across the country during National Women Build Week in an effort to eliminate poverty housing. These dates are significant to many volunteers, as families with children make up a staggering number of those in need of adequate housing.

Getting started with our 9th Women Build house was frustrating because of weather delays, but by May the house was under roof. Over a dozen women and a few good men helped kick off National Women Build Week on Saturday, May 2, by installing siding with Michele Haynes on her future home.

Lowe’s helped launch National Women Build Week in 2008 and each year provides volunteers and conducts how-to clinics at stores. This year, Lowe’s contributed nearly $2 million to National Women Build Week, including awarding a $5000 grant to Loudon County Habitat for Humanity.

Lowe’s Heroes, Gail Roberts (retired) and Doug Roberts as well as Patrick McConnell, Blount County Lowe’s store manager were on site lending a hand.

Why do women love Women Build? Molly Greebe of Heartland Habitat put it this way, “They build to learn new skills in the construction trade. They build to give back to their community. They build to focus on something bigger than themselves for a day. They build to honor a loved one who has passed away. They build to meet new people and explore new things. They build because they like the challenge. They build because it’s their only chance to get their hands on some power tools. They build to prove that they can do anything they aspire to do. They build because God called them to help those less fortunate.”

Thank you to all the women (and men) who volunteered their time not only for National Women Build Week, but every week and everywhere. You ARE making a difference!

Partner Families in the Habitat program must complete education classes before they can purchase a house. Below is a list of items generally covered in the classes.

Orientation to the Habitat Program
Families help dictate the meeting time, day and location based on their schedules to enable the greatest possible participation and to eliminate potential barriers.

Basic Financial Management
Analyzing family financial situations to enable the families to get the maximum benefit from take-home pay. The goal is to help families save for closing costs, get control of any debt and pay monthly bills while still building savings accounts.

Making and managing a budget with regular ‘check ups’ to help families overcome any financial pitfalls before they become catastrophic.

Home Maintenance
Learning through hands-on experience how to repair and maintain a home. Learning how to patch a screen, patch a hole in drywall, replace toilet parts, and much more, so maintaining a safe, healthy home is attainable.

Homeowners’ Insurance
Discussing the components of homeowners’ insurance, its purpose and what to do to help control insurance costs. This year, an insurance agent will lead this discussion and answer all pertinent questions.

Neighborhood Etiquette
Role playing scenarios to help families understand the importance of working with neighbors on issues as they arise without third-party interventions. Helping families to understand the community aspect of a neighborhood to build camaraderie and respect.
The only two things that matter in life are love and being there for each other.”

Susie, homeowner

“I think it’s just so amazing how the grace of God works. I gave Him all the glory for all of these wonderful things that are happening in my life. The place they are building for my family has ownership of our future inside, and I can’t wait to see what it holds!”

Dylan, homeowner

Habitat is more than just a program of providing houses. It involves expectation, sharing, giving, joy, making new friends, learning new things, becoming more of a community and, most of all, sharing love.

Ribfest is Coming!

Mark your calendars for the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection’s Ribfest 4 Homes, an annual BBQ rib cook-off and all around fun event for the entire family. This is Ribfest 4 Homes’ 7th year and it will take place on Saturday August 8, from 1-5 at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 917 Pond Rd in Loudon. Proceeds from this event are used by the church to sponsor and build a Habitat house. The church has built 3 houses since 2009 with these funds.

National Women Build Week—Raspberry Rules the Day

From May 2-10, 2015, an estimated 15,000 women volunteered at least one day at Habitat for Humanity construction sites across the country during National Women Build Week in an effort to eliminate poverty housing. These dates are significant to many volunteers, as families with children make up a staggering number of those in need of adequate housing.

Getting started with our 9th Women Build house was frustrating because of weather delays, but by May the house was under roof. Over a dozen women and a few good men helped kick off National Women Build Week on Saturday, May 2, by installing siding with Michele Haynes on her future home.

Lowe’s helped launch National Women Build Week in 2008 and each year provides volunteers and conducts how-to clinics at stores. This year, Lowe’s contributed nearly $2 million to National Women Build Week, including awarding a $5000 grant to Loudon County Habitat for Humanity. Lowe’s Heroes, Gail Roberts (retired) and Doug Roberts as well as Patrick McConnell, Blount County Lowe’s store manager were on site lending a hand.

Why do women love Women Build? Molly Grobee ofHeartland Habitat put it this way, “They build to learn new skills in the construction trade. They build to give back to their community. They build to focus on something bigger than themselves for a day. They build to honor a loved one who has passed away. They build to meet new people and explore new things. They build because they like the challenge. They build because it’s their only chance to get their hands on some power tools. They build to prove that they can do anything they aspire to do. They build because God called them to help those less fortunate.”

Thank you to all the women (and men) who volunteered their time not only for National Women Build Week, but every week and everywhere. You ARE making a difference!
This is the first sentence a family reads when they receive their invitation letter to partner with Loudon County Habitat for Humanity. When this important letter is opened, a new and life-changing chapter begins. But even getting to this point is a journey in itself. To begin with, the family must hear about the program—usually from a friend at church or work. At first it sounds too good to be true, but with some encouragement and a lot of hope, the journey begins when the family fills out a pre-application.

"I think sometimes we just need to remember that we need help from others. We need to humble ourselves and acknowledge that one person alone cannot do it all so we all need to work together. And that's been what has happened with these houses, people working together for one purpose—to provide a decent house for people in need."

Jaime, homeowner

Applicants must be Loudon County residents who have a need for housing, are low income yet have steady income sufficient to pay the mortgage and are willing to work sweat equity hours. All information on the application is verified with documentation such as tax returns, pay stubs and credit reports, and home visits by staff and volunteers are made to document the current housing conditions. The Family Selection Committee reviews and ranks the applicant files based on need and makes recommendations for approval to the Board of Directors.

"I was working in a manufacturing plant as an hourly laborer, but we were barely making it. I knew there was no opportunity for advancement at the plant. We were accepted into the Habitat program, worked our sweat equity hours and moved into our new house. We soon realized that we could afford for me to take a job at the Lenoir City Police Department making less than my factory job, but with much more opportunity for advanced training and promotions. Now I'm a professional law enforcement officer. Thanks to Habitat, we have a decent home."

John, homeowner

"We must have the courage to put a stake in the ground in our communities, to set audacious goals and to bet a great majority of people will join us."

Rick Harwood, Harwood Institute for Public Innovation

Two Habitat Homes Recently Dedicated

On Sunday, May 17, Loudon County Habitat dedicated its 102nd house. The house, in the Hope Haven neighborhood, was sponsored by the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, and was the 3rd house the church has sponsored. Maria Guzman is the proud owner of this new house.

Also dedicated, on Saturday, June 20, was Habitat’s first total rehab house, located on Loudon Ridge Road in Lenoir City. The house and land were donated by Chase Bank, and the FHLB of Cincinnati Affordable Housing Program through SouthEast Bank provided funds for the demolition and reconstruction of the house. The Miller family is the recipient of this house and will be moving in soon.

The Women Build house will be dedicated Saturday, August 1 at 9:30 a.m. in the Hope Haven neighborhood.